World Book Day Fun!

We had a great day on Tuesday celebrating World Book Day. You may have noticed that we celebrated a couple of days early? This was because we wanted to book the fabulous storyteller from last year and Tuesday was her only free day! The storyteller was amazing again, she told her stories in an assembly at the start of the day and worked her way around the classes throughout the day. Leila and I also visited a couple of classes, my reading is nowhere near as awe-inspiring as the storyteller, however I enjoyed reading a story from my childhood (that my mum used to read to me at bedtime) called 'Gary and the very terrible monster'. I also enjoyed listening to some of the children in Emerald class read their Everest-inspired poetry to me – very moving and a bit scary!

It was a lovely day which we hope the children enjoyed.

Have a lovely weekend, Mrs E Williams.
